ICHTHYOLOGY WORKSHOP AND BEACH SURVEY

Become an Ichthyologist!

Sat., February 9, 2013 11am - 6pm

Learn about the amazing diversity, adaptations and survival strategies of the fishes of Southern California through a presentation and hands-on classroom activities. We will explore external and internal fish anatomy through dissection.

Participants will experience first hand working with some of our local fish species by assisting in a field research survey led by Cabrillo Marine Aquarium's Exhibits and Collections Curator, Dr. Julianne Passarelli. The survey is designed to monitor the abundance and diversity of the invertebrates and fishes living offshore in the eelgrass beds of Inner Cabrillo Beach. You will get wet and sandy, but have lots of fun!

LAUSD pre-approved professional development opportunities for salary point credit.
