

Internet Bird Search

Birds are all around us every day. We see them at home, at school, in the city, in parks, at the beach – Everywhere! But how much do you know about them? You may not know a lot, or you may be a junior ornithologist (a scientist that studies birds). Either way, here is a chance for you to learn more about some of the birds you see all the time, and some that you may have never seen. Using the websites below, see if you can find the answers to the questions on the attached worksheet. Maybe you'll find that you want to learn more about these birds, and many more!
